Certification and Education for Eye Care Excellence

7:30-8:00 a.m.	REGISTRATION: CONTINENTAL BREAKFAST
8:00-8:50 a.m.	OPTIC NEURITIS AND ITS NEW ALPHABET SOUP Rosa Tang, MD, MPH, MBA Optic neuritis is no longer just the preamble to multiple sclerosis, but also to other more blinding entities. This course will discuss the new alphabet soup, what it means, and how to sort it out.
8:50-9:40 a.m.	UPDATE ON OCULOPLASTICS PROCEDURES Krishna Kalyam, MD In this course, the audience will learn terminology and instruments used in oculoplastics. We will discuss various eyelid disorders and facial lesions that can be seen in a general ophthalmology and an oculofacial surgery practice. The attendee will be able to recognize common eyelid disorders and learn about the diagnostic and treatment process.
9:40-9:55 a.m.	BREAK
9:55-10:45 a.m.	CO-MANAGEMENT LIABILITY EXPOSURES AND RISK MANAGEMENT STRATEGIES Hans Bruhn, MHS This course will identify the medical malpractice liability risk exposures associated with patient co-management and how to mitigate those patient safety issues.
10:45-11:35 a.m.	ENCOURAGING, EQUIPPING, AND EMPOWERING TECHNICIANS Tracy Hodo, COA, OSC This course is designed to encourage technicians to think beyond the routine everyday approach to patient care and consider how their involvement as a team member in the patient care experience is crucial to the practice. Incorporating a mentoring, educational learning approach increases skill levels and ignites the confidence level of technicians. Boosting morale, leading by example, and creating the work environment that you desire changes the atmosphere of the entire practice, but it all starts by individual personal change.
11:35 a.m.-12:35 p.m.	CRITICAL THINKING TO INCREASE WORKUP EFFICIENCY Brenda Adams, COT Learn to use your critical thinking skills to anticipate what each patient requires during a workup. Our goal is to gather enough pertinent information to allow the physician to diagnose and treat without having the physician see that patient several times during one office visit.
12:35-1:25 p.m.	LUNCH EXHIBIT HALL: CHANTILLY BALLROOM (Attendees will be given a ticket for lunch)
1:25-3:05 p.m. (This is a 2 hr. talk)	BASIC CONCEPTS OF B-SCAN ULTRASONOGRAPHY Gus Kohn, COT, ROUB, CDOS, CRA This course is intended to describe the method of ultrasonographically imaging the intraocular structures of the eye. Course will include a live demonstration.
3:05-4:00 p.m.	TONOMETRY: THEORY, TECHNIQUE, AND TIPS Suzanne Hansen, MEd, COMT Intraocular pressure is a key component for ocular examinations. The theory for noninvasive IOP measurement and types of tonometers is important for identifying best practice techniques and possible sources of error to avoid.
4:00 p.m.	ADJOURN
